Dear Diane:

Thanks for your excellent Three-Month Report, one of the best of the many hundreds I have read. I am greatly impressed by your reflections on your job, your life, and yourself. You seem somehow to have rationalized your culture shock into a useful philosophy and a concrete plan for the future. You have my congratulations, not only for the intellectual exercise you have gone through but also for the clarity of expression in describing it.

I am particularly pleased by your comments about language because, as you probably know, I consider language the most valuable tool a Volunteer can develop during <sup>his</sup> service. (He usually is already stuck with his personality.)

Anyway, bravo!

Best wishes,

Kellogg Smith
